

WEDNESDAY,
JANUARY 23RD
AT 3PM

Donald Levin, the author of the Ferndale-based Martin Preuss series, will host a discussion on his books, poetry, and writing career with a reception to follow.

Levin is an award-winning fiction writer and poet, and the author of five Martin Preuss mysteries: An Uncertain Accomplice (2018), The Forgotten Child (2017), Guilt in Hiding (2016), The Baker's Men (2014), and Crimes of Love (2011). Book #6 in the series is under way. He is also the author of The House of Grins (1992), a novel; and two books of poetry, In Praise of Old Photographs (2005) and New Year's Tangerine (2007). His poetry and fiction have appeared in numerous print and e-journals. At various times he has worked as a warehouseman, theatre manager, advertising copywriter, scriptwriter, video producer, and political speechwriter, and is the retired Dean of the Faculty and Professor Emeritus of English at Marygrove College in Detroit. He and his wife, artist Suzanne Allen, split their time between Florida and Ferndale, Michigan (the setting for the Preuss series).
